This accession is made up of machine copies of letters exchanged by Mellie Dunham, one of Henry Ford's favorite old-time fiddlers, and Frank Campsall, Ford's personal secretary. Only the December 30 letter was copied for 1925, but the originals still exist in Accession 285. This group of letters was copied for researcher J. Parker Huber and was returned to the Ford Archives along with a calendar which Huber had prepared.